

Cycling The Inland Sea

The Shimanami Kaido is a 70-kilometre-long road that connects Japan's main island of Honshu to the island of Shikoku passing the beautiful islands of the Seto Inland Sea. As the route is perfectly marked by a blue line and easy to follow, this tour is ideal for cyclists of all levels. However, you can also enjoy this tour by car. Begin your independent journey in Osaka, the second-largest city of Japan, where you will arrive by plane. Then head to Onomichi City before cycling the six small islands of Mukaishima, Innoshima, Ikuchijima, Omishima, Hakatajima and Oshima. Before heading back to Osaka for your flight back, explore Takamatsu, a port city in Shikoku overlooking the Seto Inland Sea.

Day 3: Shimanami Kaido – Mukaishima, Innoshima

Onomichi to Mukaishima 8 KM
Mukaishima to Innoshima 12 KM

After breakfast, pick up your bicycle and start your cycling adventure. From Onomichi you can reach the first island in the Shimanami Kaido, Mukaishima, by ferry. Hop off on this island where the Shimanami Kaido starts. After cycling around this island, carry on to the next one, Innoshima. The two islands are connected by the Innoshima Bridge, a suspension bridge of 770 meters, completed in 1983.

Whilst in Innoshima, you might want to hike Mt Shiratake whose summit offers a magnificent view of the Inland Sea. Another attraction of this mountain are the 700 carved Buddhist statues. If you visit this island during Summer, you can also relax and sunbathe at the Shimanami Beach.

Check in to your Guesthouse for one night.

Day 4: Shimanami Kaido – Ikuchijima to Omishima

Innoshima to Ikuchijima 12 KM
Ikuchijima to Omishima 16 KM

After breakfast, it's time to cycle again. Today head on to Ikuchijima Island. This island has different attractions to visit. To name a few, Kosan-ji and Choseikaku Villa are sights not to be missed. Kosan-ji is one of the main sights located in the main town. This Buddhist Temple complex was founded in 1935 and took more than 30 years to complete.

Choseikaku Villa was built in 1929 and it was designed by Kanemoto Kozo, a businessman from Osaka. The main building is constructed in traditional Japanese style.

Your next island is Omishima. Ikuchijima and Omishima are connected by a lovely cable-stayed bridge called Tataru Bridge. Omishima Island is home to a variety of art museums and sights to visit. One of the main attractions is the Oyamazumi Shrine. Inside its museum, you will find a collection of samurai armour and weapons. Another attraction is the Omishima Art Museum whose collection includes many Japanese Nihonga, Japanese style paintings. On the south of the island, you will find Tokoro Art Museum, a contemporary art museum located on a steep slope offering breathtaking views of the island.

Check in to your Guesthouse for one night.

Day 5: Shimanami Kaido - Hakatajima & Oshima

Omishima to Hakatajima 16 KM
Hakatajima to Oshima 8 KM

Today head to Hakatajima, the smallest island on the Shimanami Kaido. However, with a few steep climbs, it is worth to go around this island with your bike. If you happen to visit during the cherry blossom season, we do recommend you do not miss Mt Hirakiyama and its wonderful cherry trees! Through the Hakata Bridge you will end up to your final destination for today, Oshima island, the end of the Shimanami Kaido. In Oshima Island we do recommend you visit the Kirozan Observatory Park, which offers wonderful views of the Seto Inland Sea.

Check in for one night in a Guesthouse.

Day 6: Oshima to Takamatsu via Imabari (Shikoku Island)

After breakfast head to Imabari on the Shikoku Island where the Shimanami Kaido route ends. Here you can drop off your bicycle and explore Imabari. Imabari is Now listed as a Japanese National Treasure, the gardens also include a Folk Craft Museum, restaurant and three Tea Houses, where visitors can enjoy a tea ceremony. The ruins of Takamatsu's Castle, in Tamamo Park, and the Yakuri-ji and Yashima-ji temples are also worth seeing.
